CALEB

Integrated Marketing Project Manager | Campaigns, Activations & Cross-Functional Delivery

London, ON (open to a hybrid commute to Toronto) | 226-238-7832 | calebabraham209@gmail.com | caleb848.github.io

September 27, 2026

Hiring Team, Integrated Commercial Marketing & Fan Engagement
Maple Leaf Sports & Entertainment (MLSE), Toronto, ON

Re: Integrated Commercial Marketing Manager, Football Vertical
Toronto FC & Toronto Argonauts | Requisition JR0000796

Dear Hiring Team,

Your posting asked for my Player Stats, so here they are: six years on the agency side, 40+ integrated marketing projects a year, 10 to 20+ teammates kept pointed in the same direction, and one very full calendar. The highlight reel lives at caleb848.github.io. I want to put all of it to work for Toronto FC and the Toronto Argonauts.

You also listed agency experience as a welcome background. I took that personally, in the best way. At The Turn Lab, I run social, digital activations, OOH, video, web builds, and RFP responses for several clients at once, owning the schedules, budgets, approvals, and client communication from brief to delivery. This role asks someone to turn business priorities into integrated campaigns, then get Ticketing, Global Partnerships, Retail, Creative, and Game Operations to agree on one plan. At an agency, we call that Tuesday.

For the record, a campaign that looks great and sells nothing is just an expensive mood board. I've managed pricing campaigns, landing pages, social, and video for major homebuilding brands, tracked budgets and billing on workstreams worth $100K+, and led RFP responses on deadlines that didn't move. I'm as comfortable in a creative review as in a budget reconciliation. Brand and revenue play for the same team.

The part of this role I'm most excited about is being the connector. I'm the person who sends the follow-up before anyone has to ask, catches feedback before it disappears into a Slack thread, and keeps creative teams moving without making them feel chased by a spreadsheet. Good structure is invisible when it's working. My job is to make sure it's always working.

I've worked the live side too. Organizing seven community events for Next You (logistics, speakers, the works) taught me that people show up for experiences that feel worth the trip. BMO Field is a slightly bigger room, but the principle holds.

And since innovation made it into the job description: I've led AI tool evaluations and chatbot vendor assessments, presented recommendations to leadership, and helped drive workflow automation that improved how my team delivers work. I also work hands-on with Claude and Claude Code.

Yes, I live in London, Ontario, and yes, I'm happy to commute to Toronto. The 401 and I have reached an understanding. Thank you for your time. I'd love to talk about how I can help make every matchday matter: on time, on budget, and occasionally, miraculously, ahead of schedule.

Sincerely,
Caleb

P.S. I appreciate a job where "football" means two different sports. After six years of juggling clients and channels, a round ball and a pointy one feel very manageable.